

APTR-ODPHP Preventive Medicine and Public Health Fellowship Program Healthy People Communication Fellowship

The Association for Prevention Teaching and Research (APTR) with support from the Office of Disease Prevention and Health Promotion (ODPHP), U.S. Department of Health and Human Services is seeking applications for the position of Prevention Science Fellow.

MISSION OF ODPHP

The mission of ODPHP is to provide leadership, coordination, and support for disease prevention and health promotion activities, programs, policies, and information for the Department of Health and Human Services through collaboration with HHS agencies and other partners in prevention, nation-wide.

BACKGROUND

ODPHP leads the development and implementation of the Healthy People initiative. For three decades, Healthy People has provided a comprehensive set of national disease prevention and health promotion objectives. These objectives serve as a catalyst mobilizing action in public health policy, research, programs, and communication across the country and globally. ODPHP coordinates activities related to Healthy People including but not limited to the development of objectives, monitoring progress towards achieving objectives, promoting awareness and implementing strategies to achieve objectives, and fostering collaboration among organizations and individuals, both within and outside of the federal government.

FELLOWSHIP DESCRIPTION

ODPHP seeks a fellow with training in communication, e-marketing, and/or public health to play a major role in its Healthy People activities. The fellow will work primarily on Healthy People 2020 communication, Web, and promotion activities. The primary responsibilities of the fellow are as follows:

- Work in collaboration with the ODPHP Community Strategies Team and Communication and e-health Team to help oversee and provide strategic vision in the management of the Healthy People Web site (healthypeople.gov), including managing the development of new interactive tools and a relational database of Healthy People 2020 objectives and implementation strategies.
- Assist in Web optimization, user testing and evaluation of the web site.
- Work in collaboration with the ODPHP Community Strategies Team and Communication and e-health Team to plan, implement and evaluate outreach and engagement of Healthy People constituents and potential partners, including the use of social media (such as LinkedIn and Twitter)

- Serve as the liaison between the Healthy People management team and the Healthy People 2020 Health Communication and Health IT topic area coordinators.
- Additional duties as needed:
 1. Assist Community Strategies Team with preparation for and drafting of proceedings of the 2012 National Health Promotion Summit planned for spring 2012.
 2. Work with the Healthy People Consortium Coordinator in reinvigorating the Consortium and developing strategies to keep members engaged.
 3. Assist the Community Strategies Team in the production of the monthly Leading Health Indicators bulletins, webinars and other resources.
 4. Assist Health Communication and Health IT working group respond to data development, tracking and reporting.

In general, the fellow will be called on to participate in meetings; collaborate with agency liaisons; collaborate with ODPHP teams and other federal staff, and assist with managing the logistics, deliverables, and quality assurance aspects of large communication contracts for Healthy People 2020 communication efforts.

ELIGIBILITY

Eligible applicants must:

- (1) Be either a U.S. Citizen, non-citizen national, or foreign national possessing a visa permitting permanent residence in the U.S. (Alien Registration or “Green Card”). Student visas and temporary work visas do not qualify.
- (2) Have completed a graduate degree in communication, marketing, or public health; AND
- (3) If awarded the fellowship, be an individual member of APTR (individual membership - $175.00 annually). For further information regarding APTR individual membership, please contact the APTR Membership team at (866) 520-APTR.

REQUIRED SKILLS

The formal training and work related experience of the fellow must be in communication, e-marketing, and/or public health with demonstrable training or experience in promotion and outreach, Web site management, new media (e.g. Twitter, Facebook, Blogs, etc.), plain language writing, and partnership development. The fellow must be familiar with a wide range of communication, social marketing, and Web usability best practices and theories. The fellow must have excellent oral and written communication skills; excellent organizational skills; strong computer and Internet skills; ability to conceptualize a complex process and identify possible approaches; and be able to work independently as well as collaboratively.

EXPECTED BENEFITS

The Fellowship provides an unparalleled opportunity for professional growth, development, and networking in health promotion and prevention policy. It is an excellent opportunity for early to mid-level professionals to gain experience in developing communication programs, apply communication concepts to public health issues, and provide support to health communication and e-Health initiatives. The fellow will be exposed to policy development and decision making at the highest levels within the Department of Health and Human Services. The fellows will have contact with the federal staff and the public health community and the opportunity to gain insight into the operations and interactions of its constituent members. The fellow will participate in the in development and implementation of ODPHP's strategies to move federal policies and programs to the state and local levels. The fellows will contribute to the creation of the next iteration of the national disease prevention and health promotion goals and objectives, which will reflect current and emerging critical public health issues.

PERIOD OF ASSIGNMENT

The term of service for the Healthy People Communication Fellow will be one year, with the potential to extend the award for an additional year. The fellow is expected to begin in spring 2012. There is one fellowship position available.

COMPENSATION

The annual stipend of $45,000-55,000 (depending on level of credentials and experience) is intended to cover all living expenses including housing and transportation during the fellowship training, and the annual fellowship allowance of $4,000 is intended to cover health costs and other similar expenses not covered by the stipend. Please note that relocation travel costs are not allowable. The fellow is responsible for moving himself/herself, family, and belongings to the assignment at personal expense. The Fellow will also have access to a $3,000 travel allowance for project-related expenses such as travel, conference registration, and training.
